

Supplementary Content: Image Gallery

Images to accompany the American Journal of Archaeology publication:

The Basilica, Bouleuterion, and Civic Center of Ashkelon

Ryan Boehm, Daniel M. Master, and Robyn Le Blanc

Link to this article: <http://dx.doi.org/10.3764/aja.120.2.0271>

Published online 21 March 2016

American Journal of Archaeology Volume 120, Number 2

DOI: 10.3764/ajaonline1202.Boehm.suppl

This online-only published content is freely available electronically immediately upon publication and can be distributed under the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial License (CC BY-NC). This license allows anyone to reuse, remix, and build upon the content, as long as it is for legal noncommercial purposes; the new work must credit the author, the AJA, and the Archaeological Institute of America.

Unless otherwise noted in the caption, images are by the author. Images are not edited by the AJA to the same level as those in the published article.

FIG. 1. View of Wall T3 (W140) of the Hellenistic complex at Ashkelon, from the Palestine Exploration Fund excavations (PEF G344, "S. end General view from E. showing triple pavement and Hellenistic wall," 1921; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).

FIG. 2. Possible tessera floor of the basilica hall at Ashkelon (PEF 359, "Same as 135 [Interior middle of great court showing excavation from W], showing original tessellated pavement," 1921; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).

FIG. 3. Orchestra wall and seating in the Severan bouleuterion/odeum at Ashkelon (PEF G338, “‘Theatre’ seats beyond, S.E. of ‘Peace’ 1920”; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).

FIG. 4. Western aditus maximus of the bouleuterion/odeum (PEF G341, "Foundations of basilica 1921"; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).

FIG. 5. Vaulting of the western aditus maximus of the bouleuterion/odeum, view to the west (PEF G325, "Masonry, west, before removal. 1920"; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).

FIG. 6. Architectural members north of bouleterion/odeum scaena wall (PEF G319, "Same as 93 [Architectural remains] showing foundation wall," 1920; courtesy Palestine Exploration Fund, London).